Qualified Resources, Facilities, Systems and Services for the Intelligence and Defense Communities

Credible threats persist in every part of the world, which means that the intelligence and defense communities must not only work to defeat current threats to U.S. security, but they must also foresee, prepare for and prevent tomorrow's global security threats. As technology and the depth of potential attacks evolves, the need for highly trained professionals is critical in enabling military leaders and policymakers to decide on the best course of action to protect their home country.

Intelligence Resources and Capabilities

As a Veteran-owned small business, Syndicus employs four long-time military professionals with a combined 80+ years of service time. As a result, Syndicus has amassed a large ex-military talent network, from which we recruit and acquire the resources necessary — many of whom have Top Secret/Special Compartmented Information (TS/SCI) clearances and approved Life Style Polygraph (LS Poly), Counter Intelligence Polygraph (CI Poly) and Full Scope Polygraph (FS Poly) background checks.

As a company, Syndicus has more than 10 years' experience identifying, qualifying, hiring and retaining:

- ◆ Cyber Security Analysts/Instructors
- ◆ Penetration Testers
- ◆ All-source Analysts
- ◆ Forensics Analysts
- ◆ Social Network Analysts
- ◆ Supply Chain Analysts
- ◆ SIGINT Metadata Analysts
- ◆ Financial Analysts
- ◆ Network Analysts
- ◆ Issue Managers
- ◆ Program Managers (IDIQ and task order levels)
- ◆ Analysis Instructors/Trainers

Facilities and Systems

Syndicus maintains a Top Secret Facilities Clearance and approved accounting system suitable for government contracts.

Security Services

Syndicus experts review company-wide security measures to ensure that the most rigid procedures are followed. Our methodology is based on established, recognized standards such as ISO-27001, the NIST SP-800 series of publications and the Critical Security Controls (SAN Top 20) from the Council on Cybersecurity.
